The first had declared the local Republican party's adherence to the principles enunciated in the Republican platform, adopted at Chicago. That plank was inserted in the honest conviction that the National plutform contains an enunciation of principles calculated to promote the interests of the whole people of the United States. One of the traditions of the party was its adherence to the protection of home industries, sound money, increase of commerce.

The second and third paragraphs endorsed the wise and patriotic adminis-She brought 62 cabin passengers, 42 tration of Roosevelt and endorsed the nomination of Roosevelt and Fairbanks. We applaud the patriotic, strong, clean, honest administration that Roosevelt has given the nation. There was every reason, therefore that this Territory should endorse Roosevelt. He has on every occasion clearly shown his interest in Hawaii and his desire is to do the best for its people. The speaker believed that Roosevelt would do everything in his power for Hawaii.

The fourth paragraph, he said, was publicans who have thought, or believe, they ought to scratch the ticket. This, he said, was one of the planks that Cecil Brown was standing on when he asked the Republican convention to nominate him for the Senate. The plank read as follows: "We heartily endorse the successful administration of Governor George R. Carter." (Applause.) cil Brown, standing on the platform, asked for a nomination. There was should have endorsed the administration of Carter. Ever since his appointment he has shown that he has the best interests of the Territory at heart. He has given a clean, honest efficient administration. In all his departments and in every conceivable way his constant effort has been for the best administration on behalf of the people.

He had not been in office long before he discovered the Territory was "up against it." There were two courses for Carter to pursue. One was to be bold and take the bit in his teeth and arbitrarily cut down salaries right and left and give the office-holders to understand that they must all expect to receive the salaries he was willing to allow them. The other course was for him to throw himself upon the people of the Territory, by calling their representatives of the Legislature, and submit to them the proposition of making the expenditures agree with the receipts. It did not take him long to make up his mind. He did not arbitrarily take the bit in his mouth, but he convened the people's representatives in the House and Senate and submitted to them the condition of things as Stmr. Noeau, Pederson, for windward pended upon their patriotism and came gestions and they retrenched. Now we

ANDREWS RED HOT.

Lorrin Andrews, Chairman of the Fourth District Central Committee, was the next speaker. He proceeded to rip into tatters the platform of the Democratic party, and did it so thoroughly that the audience applauded him to the echo when he had finished.

He said, in part: "The Democrats have a platform; I suppose they had to have one just to get into the campaign. and that is about the only reason they could have for the mass of contradictions and abuse they have put into the Section Director, in Charge. start out with an absurdity. BRECKONS TALKS SENSE. United States District Attorney Breckons made a patriotic address winning tremendous applause throughout. He spoke on party issues in general. He said it was true that Hawaii could not cast a vote for President and it was true a delegate could not be sent to Congress with power to vote, but supposing the man who was sent from here was a man who wanted to revise the tariff. Would he be listened to? They will tell him that down in Hawall on November 8, 1904, an election was held at which a Democrat standthe tariff, was selected.
